Provides for the notes and interest to be secured solely by payments by the state to the local government pursuant to such intergovernmental transfer agreement and for the funds received from the state by the local government to be immediately applied to the retirement of the notes			To the extent a local government chooses to issue notes and the state approves such issuance, the local government would transfer the borrowed amount to the state which the state would use to draw down federal funds, at a rate of 67.59% for nursing home payments. The state would transfer the original borrowed amount along with a 2% administrative fee back to the local government. Any increase in expenditures to the local government for interest costs is estimated to be not significant as the notes would be for a very short term. Such increase would be offset by the administrative fee received from the
